DR. MOMENT IS ON TRIAL.

Untruthfulness and Contumacy Charged Before Presbytery.

Rev. Alfred H. Moment, formerly of the Immanuel Church of Brooklyn, was placed on trial today by the Presbytery. He is charged with untruthfulness and contumacy. Six months ago he was tried for immoral conduct and was suspended from the church for six months. It is now charged that he made untruthful statements at that trial. REV. JOHN KELLER.
(Sketched in court to-day by an Evening World artist.)

The jury in the case of Thomas G. Barker, of Arlington, indicted for shooting Rev. John Keller, has been chosen and testimony in what will prove the most sensational trial New Jersey has had in many years is being given.

In his opening address to the jury Prosecutor Erwin said: "We will prove that Barker lay in wait for Keller and shot him like a dog; that Barker shot at Keller three times while his victim was lying on the sidewalk."

Two women testified that they saw Barker stand over the prostrate form of the preacher and fire three shots at him. Then Barker ran away. Mary Room testified that she saw Mr. Barker fire the last shot. "Then," the witness said, "I saw Mr. Barker put the pistol in his right hand coat pocket and walk across Beach street. Mr. Barker's defense will be based upon the confession of his wife, who swears that the minister had assaulted her."

Upon that fiction of the law which permits a husband to kill the man who has sullied the honor of his home Barker depends for acquittal. He will

(Special to The Evening World.)

BOSTON, Mass., June 17.—Boston and Philadelphia lined up in the presence of a crowd that was pretty slim for Bunker Hill Day there being not more than 1,200 people present when the game began.

Big crowds generally gather, but to-day the opposition game at the American grounds has the best of it.

Pittinger and White were selected as the rival slammers, and both cut out pretty fast work in the practice. Nichols was alternate for Pittinger.

Grosart, the new left fielder Manager Selee discovered in the West, was robbed up by the Dayton, Ohio, Club by virtue of prior contract and did not come home with the club. Gammons was put in left in consequence. Smith again stayed out of the game on account of injuries.

First Inning.
Pittinger was very wild, hitting Thomas, who was advanced by Hallman's sacrifice, and giving Flick and Wolverton their bases. Slagle and McFarland slipped, bringing in Thomas, Flick and Wolverton. Slagle scored on McFarland's hit. Four runs.

Crolius singled and Tenney walked. Demont's grounder advanced both and they scored on Douglars' passed ball and Hamilton's bunt. Long, who got third on a fielder's chance and reached third on Hamilton's hit, scored on Moran's fly to left. Three runs.

Second Inning.
Thomas walked and Hallman singled. With the first man up they were all left on a triple play. No runs.

Gammons was hit and Pittinger's sacrifice put him on second. He scored on Crolius's hit to left. One run.

Third Inning.
The Quakers were too fast for Pittinger, who retired in favor of Nichols. Sharp playing retired the visitors in order. No runs.

Boston took the lead. Long singled. A sacrifice sent him to second and a passed ball to third. He scored on Lowe's single. One run.

Fourth Inning.
The visitors found Nichols easy. McFarland doubled and scored on Cross's singles. A sacrifice put Cross on second and he scored on Thomas's hit. Two runs.

Nichols singled and went to second on McFarland's fourth passed ball. Long hit to Cross, who doubled up Gammons at third. Long and Hamilton were out on a double play. Hallman to Delehanty. No runs.

Fifth Inning.
McFarland tripled and scored on Slagle's drive. Wolverton fanned. Slagle was thrown out at second and McFarland fled to Long. One run.

Nichols singled and went to second on McFarland's fourth passed ball. Long hit to Cross, who doubled up Gammons at third. Long and Hamilton were out on a double play. Hallman to Delehanty. No runs.

Sixth Inning.
Cross fouled to Moran. White fanned. Thomas hit to Long and was out at first. No runs.

Seventh Inning.
Hallman fled to Hamilton. Delehanty was out at third. Demont, assisting, left, as Wolverton hit to Long and was thrown out. No runs.

Eighth Inning.
Slagle hit to Lowe, who threw wide, and Slagle kept on to second. McFarland fled to Gammons. Cross walked. White popped to Nichols. Thomas out. Tenney to Nichols. No runs.

PTOMAINES FATAL TO RICH GIRL.

Brooklyn Social Belle Poisoned While on European Trip.

The sad ending of a trip abroad by two sisters well known in Brooklyn society was announced to-day in the death of one of them in England. Among the passengers on the Oceanic on May 27 were the Misses Florence and Julia MacKenzie, of St. Paul's place, Flatbush, daughters of the late William MacKenzie. They were accompanied by their aunt and intended to make a six months' tour of the British Isles.

Seven days after the party landed Miss Florence MacKenzie was taken ill and died while visiting relatives at Brayside, Ayrshire, near Manchester. The physicians said her death was due to ptomaine poison in shrimp sauce.

Miss Julia MacKenzie returned home at once. The body of her sister will arrive on the Teutonic next Wednesday. Miss Florence MacKenzie was twenty-five years old.

The funeral will be held from St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church next Friday afternoon.

RUDDER BROKE IN MIDSTREAM.

Panic on Ferry-Boat Philadelphia as She Drifted with Tide.

Mindful of the Northfield disaster, the passengers of the Pennsylvania Railroad ferry-boat Philadelphia were thrown into a panic this afternoon when the vessel broke her rudder in midstream and drifted helplessly with the tide in the North River.

She grounded her distress and there was great scurrying of craft in the neighborhood.

The fears of the passengers were allayed by the officers for a time, but as none of the boats seemed able to give aid there were many anxious persons aboard.

After drifting for an hour and a half the Philadelphia was taken in tow by three Pennsylvania tugs and taken to her slip at Twenty-third street, whither she was bound.

She grounded her distress and there was great scurrying of craft in the neighborhood.

CONVENT GIRLS
MET BY LUNATIC

Invader at Mt. St. Vincent Had Cash and Ocean Ticket.

"Hello, my dear daughters," shouted a white-haired, fine-looking old man to the two hundred girls of Mount St. Vincent's Convent, Spuyten Duyvil, as they were walking in the convent grounds to-day. As he shouted he ran towards them, and the girls, badly frightened, fled in all directions.

Then the old man walked up the convent steps, and tried to force his way into the building, but nuns barred the door and telephoned for the police.

When the officers arrived they found the man wandering about the grounds, muttering. He was taken to the Fordham Hospital, where he was declared "insane."

In his pocket were found $50 in cash, a ticket for Bremen on the North German Lloyd line and letters addressed to Frederick Steinberg, Mobile, Ala.

Forence, eight years old, but strayed around the corner, where she could not be seen. Her aunt, who recently moved to that neighborhood, saw the child and called to her.

Schenkewitz, when attached to the West Forty-seventh street station, was charged with having assaulted Alice Plunkett, the ten-year-old daughter of Christopher Plunkett, of 31 West Forty-seventh street, on May 29. The accused tried to prove an alibi, but his testimony was not believed. He is the man from whose breast Deputy Commissioner Devery recently tore the shield.
